

Scott Kilian, CFP

Scott, a La Mesa resident, is a practicing wealth management advisor serving families and business owners for 2 decades. He is a Waldorf pedagogy enthusiast, regularly participating in Anthroposophical study groups and has a son attending a local Waldorf school.

Scott is excited to promote the Waldorf experience because he believes it's a gift necessary of granting to every child. Therefore, he is excited to serve the Sparrow community through work on its Board.

Additionally, Scott is a member of both the La Mesa Parks and Recreation Foundation Board and is a partner of the San Diego chapter of Social Venture Partners.

Bree Ojeda, MA-English

Bree is an educator working in the lovely and diverse community of National City, near the San Diego-Mexico border. She teaches English, English for non-native speakers, and AVID - a college prep program for students who will be the first in their families to go to college. She is also currently serving as her site's Curriculum Specialist, supporting English learners and their teachers. Bree is passionate about equity in education, meaning that all students get what they need to be successful all of the time, regardless of race, economic status, immigration status, language ability, or learning differences. She holds certificates in restorative practices and trauma-informed teaching. Bree is also a strong advocate for students with learning differences, particularly dyslexia.

Bree chose NUA Sparrow for her two daughters after reading about Rudolf Steiner and the philosophy of Waldorf education. She was attracted to a holistic model of education that strives to respond to children appropriately according to their developmental stage and the way in which Waldorf education encourages a lifelong love of learning through the use of multi-disciplinary methods that incorporate art, music & craftsmanship. Bree serves on the Board of NUA Sparrow in order to give back to the school and community she feels grateful to have been a part of for over five years now

Nancy Rohland-Heinrich, Ed.D.

Dr. Nancy Rohland-Heinrich has worked in the education field over three decades having served in numerous leadership roles at the National University System. Currently, she serves as the Senior Vice President for National University. Under her tenure at the NU System, she has held leadership positions including the Executive Vice President of National University and several Vice Chancellor roles. Her scope of leadership positions includes student services, marketing and communication, K-12 initiatives, enrollment management, community relations, academics, corporate outreach, military affairs, online learning and regional operations. Nancy earned her Ed.D. in educational leadership through a joint doctoral program at UCSD and CSU San Marcos and completed graduate studies in organizational leadership at University of LaVerne. She also holds an MBA from National University, and a bachelor's degree with majors in social work and sociology from St. Cloud State University in Minnesota.

Nancy has remained involved in many civic and non-profit organizations and has served on numerous boards including Cal-SOAP, USS Midway Museum, San Diego Bowl Committee, Classroom of the Future Foundation, Association of Fundraising and Philanthropy, and the San Diego Council on Literacy. Nancy is engaged in numerous community organizations supporting education, charitable causes, military, and the business community. Nancy is a graduate of Leadership California as well as Lead San Diego's Impact and Influence San Diego programs. She was also a finalist in the 2015 Women Who Mean Business awards and has served as a judge for the last three years. Dr. Rohland-Heinrich has dedicated her professional career to encouraging educational opportunities for diverse populations of students with a focus on increasing access to all learners through innovative delivery systems at the K-12, undergraduate and graduate levels.